SCOTTISH COUNTRY DANCE is the historic dancing of Scotland, enjoyed at Court and in the country alike. Today hundreds of RSCDS groups throughout the world keep the tradition alive.

Most dances are performed in sets of three or four couples but you don't need to come with a partner as Scottish Country Dance is truly "social": you take a new partners for every dance. Our groups offer a friendly, helpful program in which to learn and enjoy Scottish Country Dancing.

Traditionally dancers wear soft-soled, heel-less shoes such as ghillies or ballet slippers. But if you're new and just want to try us out, sneakers are fine.
